LAWYERS IN MEDICAL CORPS

Walter Mandry Writes of Routine of Service in France.

Walter Mandry, a graduate of the School of Law in '17 and now with the medical department of the American Expeditionary Forces in France in a letter to Dean Eldon R. James, states that there are five lawyers in the Medical Corps. Three are from Georgetown, one from George Washington, and Mandry makes the fifth.

For two and a half months he was in Paris. "Paris," he writes, "is still a rather gay place in spite of the war. Large numbers of soldiers on leave from the front spend their time there, especially the Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders, who have no particular home to go to over here and naturally go to Paris."

The first of September headquarters were moved to a place of 15,000 population. Here he was able to get hot shower baths three of four times a week—a thing Paris afforded only on Saturdays and Sundays.

Life is very regular for him—drill at 7, breakfast at 7:45, lunch at 12:30, and dinner at 6:15. For the first ten days that he was at the new headquarters, he was on French rations, which consisted of coffee and war bread in the morning, stewed beef and beans at noon, and stewed beef and beans at night, and the same thing every day—and all the time he was thinking of dinners he had enjoyed here.

CROWD BUYS $18,000 IN WAR LOAN BONDS

Rogers Apparel Shop Takes $2,300 Worth at Court-house Meeting.

DEAN LOEB SPEAKS

Reports That University Faculty Has Spent $43,000 on Issue.

Eighteen thousand dollars' worth of Liberty bonds were taken in an hour last night at the Courthouse. The City Council bought $7,000 worth and the next largest purchase, $2,300, went to Rogers' Apparel Shop.

Subscriptions vary, ranging from $50 up. W. B. Nowell took $700 worth. Senator Frank Harris and his family bought five bonds, one apiece. A message from Hallsville told of $5,000 worth being subscribed for there. The campaign will be continued the rest of this week. H. A. Collier spoke first.

"We are fighting to stop lawlessness, avenge Belgium and the crimes against humanity," said H. A. Collier, the first speaker, "and to protect ourselves from German world domination, and a country whose motto is 'blood and iron.'"

"The seventh German war loan has raised already $3,500,000,000," Mr. Collier continued. "I think the Kaiser would rather see us fail in this second loan than capture 100,000 soldiers. Germany has not been on the offensive for more than a year, and the Allies are surely but slowly winning now," he concluded.

Dean Isidor Loeb outlined the necessity of showing the Teutons the failure of the Bismarckian policy before they would surrender.

"The farmers here have not been made aware of the situation," Doctor Loeb said. "They have subscribed liberally whenever they understood. At one schoolhouse seventeen men took eighteen subscriptions aggregating $5,500."

Doctor Loeb emphasized the investment value of the bond. He said that as soon as more people saw it and realized the bargain more money would pour in. The University faculty and students, he said, has subscribed $43,000.

W. H. Sapp said the world was too small to hold American and German forms of government. President Wilson is now the greatest statesman in the world, he said. E. C. Anderson told of the need of money to win wars. George Starrett, city attorney, scored Americans who were willing to fight only when the United States was invaded. At the close of the meeting, the audience stood and sang "America."

His name is Drew, and the Bulldogs say he is a fast runner and dodger.

COLUMBIA MERCHANTS ASK WOMEN'S AID

Housewives Can Conserve by Ordering in Quantities and Carrying Small Parcels.

The National Council of Defense has made a special appeal to the Retail Merchants' Association of Columbia to help in the national movement of conservation by cutting down delivery costs.

In order to make this possible the housewife must co-operate with the dealer to make fewer deliveries possible. This can be done by ordering in larger quantities and by carrying all packages of under $1 in value.

If the merchants can materially reduce the cost of their deliveries it will tend to prevent the raising of prices.
